Abstrak

Pencampuran kode terjadi ketika orang mencampur dua bahasa antara bahasa asli dan bahasa Inggris mereka. Saat ini penggunaan code mixing sudah menjadi hal yang lumrah di media sosial seperti facebook, instagram, twitter, whatsapp dan youtube. Dalam penelitian ini, penulis tertarik untuk menganalisis kode campuran yang ada di Instagram. Karena Instagram merupakan salah satu media sosial favorit di Indonesia, banyak pengguna mendapatkan informasi lebih cepat melalui Instagram. Dan alasan yang lebih spesifik adalah karena Instagram lebih mudah mendapatkan respon wawancara, dimana kehidupan pengguna Instagram dapat dilihat di profil, dan informasi pengguna lebih mudah diakses. Penelitian ini merupakan studi tentang campur kode yang digunakan oleh Sunny Dahye. Tujuan dari penelitian ini adalah mendeskripsikan bentuk-bentuk campur kode yang terjadi pada unggahan Sunny Dahye, dan mengetahui alasan caption Instagram Sunny Dahye menggunakan bahasa Inggris dan bahasa Indonesia. Penulis menemukan bahwa kode yang tercampur pada caption Instagram menggunakan bahasa campuran dari bahasa Indonesia ke bahasa Inggris atau sebaliknya.

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of Problem

In everyday life, we need communication with other people. We live in a world of languages. Therefore, we need to learn language. Language has an important role in the process of human interaction with each other. Language also plays an important role as the main topic that determines the success or failure of a communication. Language is closely related to how people communicate with each other. So, in learning a language we are also tied to people or society. In linguistics it is known as sociolinguistics. Sociolinguistics is the study of humans and society (Yuliana et al., 2015). Sociolinguistics studies the interaction of language and society, with language as a starting point. Variation is a key concept, applied to language itself and its use. The basic premise of sociolinguistics is that language varies and changes. As a result, language is not homogeneous - not for individual users and not within or between groups of speakers who speak the same language. Sociolinguists or people who learn a language must be familiar with a code. Code is a symbol of nationalism which is used by people to speak or communicate in language. Code is divided into code mixing and code redirection. Code mixing occurs when people mix two languages between their mother tongue and English.

Currently the use of code mixing has become commonplace on social media such as Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, WhatsApp and YouTube. Sometimes they mix languages in conversation, either directly or indirectly. The use of a combination of languages from Indonesian to English is not a taboo anymore. The reason is, English is the international language in the world. All countries learn English. Mixed languages have become a way of life for its users. This is influenced by the development of language that is easy to obtain and learn accompanied by technological developments. In this regard, it means that humans use language which is seen as a means of communication to express their ideas and identities with one another in everyday life on Instagram. Because language is seen as a means to an end, many people today use English as an international language which has been taught all over the world and has special strengths in communication, especially in the basis of interaction with other people in learning English. The relation to English is due to the influence of the academic and non-academic environments that arise from the use of variations in the language itself. In short, English is seen as a language that has a complex relationship with this globalization era which has its own control with the people who use it. Related to this, many people in Indonesia tend to use English to communicate with each other.

In Indonesia, it is common practice to mix languages between Indonesian and English. It is part of Indonesian culture to mix English with their language in everyday conversation, even though the grammar and lexicons are different. Language mixing or code-mixing is one of the sociolinguistic phenomena that occurs in a bilingual or multilingual society. Code mixing occurs when speakers use both languages together to extend that they can change from one language to another in one speech. Even though they are not very good at English and due to the influence of globalization, people are trying to learn and express themselves using English. This fact can be found all around us, starting from real daily conversations or basic conversations on social media. In this regard, here the researcher focuses on the mixed Indonesian-English language used by the community in daily conversations with other people because it seems that the people themselves tend to mix languages between Indonesian and English, especially in the current millennial era. Code mixing is known as the process of mixing two languages by a speaker in communicating with other people (Pitaloka, 2017). As previously explained, today's society tends to use language by mixing one another. The phenomenon of mixed language is common on social media. One of the social media that has recently been used by many people in Indonesia is Instagram. Instagram in Indonesia is experiencing a very rapid development, especially for personal accounts. The use of code mixing in personal accounts indicates that users have a specific reason why they use code mixing during the communication itself.

In this study, the authors are interested in analyzing the mixed code on the Instagram. because Instagram is one of the favorite social media in Indonesia, many users get information faster through Instagram. And the more specific reason is because Instagram is easier to get interview responses, where Instagram users' lives can be seen on profiles, and user information is more accessible. This research is a study of code mixing used by Sunny Dahye. The purpose of this study is to describe the forms of code mixing that occur on Sunny Dahye uploads, and to find out the reasons why Sunny Dahye's Instagram caption uses English and Indonesian. The author found that the code mixed in the Instagram caption used a mixed language from Indonesian to English or vice versa. To provide a little illustration, the researcher provides the following examples:

LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Sociolinguistics

When we talk about sociolinguistics, there are two terms that catch our attention, namely "social" or "related to society" and "linguistic or" related to language ". Linguistics is the science that studies or talks about language, especially language elements such as phonemes, morphemes, words, sentences and the relationship between these elements including the nature and formation of these elements, while socio refers to the social word which has meaning relating to society, community groups and social functions. According to Nisa, (2019) "Sociolinguistics is the study of our daily lives - how language works in our casual conversations and the media we face, and the existence of societal norms, policies, and laws that discuss language". "Language and society are like hands and gloves. They are interrelated because language cannot exist without society. Sociolinguistics can highlight the nature of language and the nature of society. We speak in different styles in different social contexts" (Wardhaugh & Fuller, 2015).

"Sociolinguistics focuses on the use of language, namely what can be said in a particular language, by whom to whom, with whose presence, when and where in what ways and in what social conditions" (Kartini, 2019). Sociolinguistics itself can be used to communicate and interact with other people, besides that sociolinguistics can also be used as a guide in communicating by showing the language, variety of language or language style that should be used when talking to certain people. Rahmantika, (2019) said that "Sociology tries to find out how society occurs, takes place, and remains. By studying social institutions and all social problems in one society, they will know how to solve them with their environment, how they are. socializing, and placing oneself in their respective places in society. While linguistics is the field of science that studies language, or a field of science that takes language as the object of study ". From the above opinions it can be concluded that sociolinguistics is the study of language (linguistics) and the use of language in society in accordance with the context.

B. Bilingualism

Bilingualism is the ability to use two languages. To be able to use both languages, a person must really master the mother tongue as the first language, and another language as the second language. "The definitions of bilingualism range from minimal proficiency in two languages, to an advanced level of proficiency that enables speakers to function and appear as native speakers of two languages" (Franson, 2009). In bilingual situations a person will often change language or variety of languages, depending on the circumstances or needs of the language being used. "Bilingualism can be used for individuals bilingualism and can also be used for society bilingualism" (Rahmantika, 2019). This is based on the opinion that it is not sufficient to limit bilingualism as an individual property. Bilingualism must also be treated as belonging to the group because language itself is not limited as a means of connecting between individuals, but also a means of communication between groups.

Individual bilingualism can be seen from various dimensions, such as the ability to speak two languages, cognitive organization (the placement of the memory of both languages in the brain), or the status of both languages for him. So, both the first and second language skills are the same (balanced bilinguality), and the first language ability is more dominant than the second language (dominant bilinguality), it is still called bilinguality. However, in this case there are differences of opinion, as there are differences in understanding about bilingualism.

Bilinguality as a psychological condition is closely related to cognitive aspects. Lambert's research to measure the extent to which the ability in two languages affects intelligence shows that there is a misperception that children who are raised in bilingualism experience obstacles in their intellectual or intellectual development. This perception is based on the premise that bilingual children have to think in one language and speak in another, thus suffering mental errors. On the contrary, bilingual children in terms of IQ are higher than monolingual children (Ardyansyah, 2012).

Moreover, bilingualism is believed that it only will cause "mental confusion" if two languages are learned at the same time. Furthermore, it is argued that monolingual children will perform better due to much amount of time in using one language for any settings. In other words, monolingual children have more exposure of the language learned, in which they have more time to practice and communicate the language as well (Zenab, 2016).

C. Code Mixing

Code mixing is a sociolinguistic phenomenon that occurs in many situations or multilingual communities and is a strategy used for convenience and social interaction. According to Syafaat & Setiawan, (2019) "code mixing is often categorized as an act of illocution that the speaker / writer does not realize in conversations that occur naturally in life real and social media". However, there is no norm that guides the level of mixing code, different communities and societies maintain it consciously or unconsciously because the level of mixing code is limited by the competencies possessed by each individual speaker. Then, the emergence of other languages in the same spoken or written text, this is a common phenomenon where two or more languages are used simultaneously which is often called code mixing.

Code – mixing (CM) is shifting from one language to another in a conversation. It refers to the combination of several languages or dialects in the same conversation or sentence by bilingual people. We can find it in everyday practice among people in the world for various reasons and usually a unconscious activity. This language mixing is not a whole sentence, but can also occur in short phrases or words. Often occurs especially among the community in adolescents, they use their first language and their second language in different domains. they do this not only in their daily use but also on their social media.

Fanani & Ma'u (2018) state that code-mixing will occur if phrases or clauses that have been involved in a conversation consists of mixed phrases or clauses and each phrase or clause does not support their own function. For example, a speaker of Bahasa Indonesia inserts most fragments from his or her vernacular in a conversation. Thus, it might be considered that the speaker has performed codemixing. The apparent characteristic of code-mixing from the grammatical aspect is the mixture between two language systems into one sentence or phrase. In other words, the apparent characteristic of code-mixing is the intra-sentential code-switching.

A state of language becomes different whenever people mix two (or more) languages or a variety of languages in that situation demands that mixing of languages. In such circumstances, only the casualty of the speakers and / or his habits are followed. Follow up such language is called code. In formal language situations, rarely there is code mixing. The characteristic that stands out from

This code mix is casualness or situation informal. If there is a mixed code inside such circumstances, this is because there are no proper expressions in the language that is used, so it is necessary to use the word or expressions from other languages (foreign languages). The nature of code mixing is distinguished between interference with integrative sentences. Interference the inclusion of an element of a language into in another language that hasn't been absorbed, so Temporary (Gaguk Rudianto, 2008).

D. Forms of Code Mixing:

In this research, the writer focuses on code mixing that occurs in words, phrases and clauses. So the author uses a theory about the form of mixed code based on the form of words called part of speech.

The word form or part of speech is the basic form in English to build a sentence.

There are nine kinds of languages, namely nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, adverbs, prepositions, conjunctions, interjection and the last is an abbreviation.

1. Form of Word

This form of word comes from Wilma Yulia's article. The forms of the word are:

a. Noun

Noun is a word which can occur as the subject or object of a verb or the related (complement) of a preposition. Used to name people, things, animals, places, and abstract concepts.

b. Adjective

Adjective is a word that used to explain the character of noun or pronoun. The common adjectives that often used in daily conversation such as good, bad, beautiful, ugly, tall, short, small, old, new, kinds of color, smart, stupid etc

c. Verb

Occurs as part of the predicate of a sentence, carries markers of grammatical categories such as tense, aspect, person, number, and refers to an action or state.

d. Adverb

A word that describes or adds to the meaning of a verb, an adjective, another adverb, or a sentence and which answered such as a question as how, where or when.

e. Preposition

Preposition is a word used with Noun, Pronoun and gerund to link the grammatically to other words. Preposition may express such meaning as possession (of), direction (to), place (at), time (before). Prepositions are combined with nouns or pronouns to form a phrase (prepositional phrase) that explains the verb, noun, or adjective.

f. Conjunction

Conjunction also connective. Conjunction is a words, phrase, or clause together, such as but, and, when, at last, besides, however, hence, then, ect,

g. Interjection

Interjection is a word which indicates an emotional state or attitude such as delight, surprise, shock and disgust, but which has no referential meaning. Interjection are often regarded as one of the part of speech. Example: "Alas, he failed.", "Oy! Look at me!", "ugh!", "wow!".

h. Abbreviation

An abbreviation is a shortened form of a written word or phrase. Abbreviations may be used to save space and time, to avoid repetition of long words and phrases, or simply to conform to conventional usage. Example: "USA" is an abbreviation of United State of America, "OTW" is an abbreviation of on the way, “UNICEF” is abbreviation of United Nations Children's Fund, and “BRB” is abbreviation of be right back.

2. The Form of Phrase

Phrase is a combination of two or more words that are non-predictative and are a grammatical unit. the phrase contains no finite verbs and does not have a subject-predicate structure (Ivan Lanin 2016).

3. The Form of Clause

A clause is a grammatical unit in the form of a group of words, at least consisting of subject and predicate and has the potential to become a sentence. The clause forms a sentence or part of a sentence and often functions as a noun, adjective or adverb. There are two types of clauses, The first is an independent clause and the second is dependent clause. An independent clause is a complete sentence and contains the main subject and verb of the sentence (also known as the main clause). Even though a dependent clause is not a complete sentence, it must be linked to an independent clause (Ivan Lanin 2016).

E. Reason for Using Code Mixing

When bilinguals switch or mix two languages, there might be motivation and reasons for code-switching and code-mixing. For example, some bilinguals mix two languages when they cannot find proper words or expressions or when there is no appropriate translation for the language being used. Also, their interlocutors, situations, messages, attitudes, and emotions generate code-mixing.

According to Bhatia and Ritchie states four factors determine language choice and mixing on the part of bilinguals: (1) participants roles and relationship; (2) situational factors: discourse topic and language allocation; (3) message-intrinsic considerations, and (4) language attitudes including social dominance and security.

1) Participant Roles and Relationship

Bhatia and Ritchie stated that participant roles and relationships play a crucial role in bilinguals’ unconscious agreement and disagreement on language choice. Agreement leads to language-matching, which in turn reflects the nature of their perceived social relationship. That is, whether bilinguals code-mix or not depends on whom they talk to. As the bilinguals, interlocutors and their relationship with interlocutors affect their code-mixing

2) Situational Factors

Bhatia and Ritchie stated that some languages are viewed as more suited to particular participant/social groups, settings or topics than others. They also postulate that social variables such as class, religion, gender, and age can influence the pattern of language mixing and switching both qualitatively and quantitatively.

METHOD

This research method is descriptive qualitative. Qualitative descriptive research is research that seeks to describe a social phenomenon and aims to reveal facts, phenomena, variables and circumstances that occur during research. This research data is taken from photo or video captions on Sunny Dahye's Instagram social media which was uploaded from June to October 2020. The reason the author chose the data taken from Sunny Dahye's caption was because he often used mixed codes in write a caption on almost all uploads on his Instagram.

Data sourced from Sunny Dahye's Instagram were 20 captions. Research data collection was carried out by means of documentation in the form of screenshots from uploaded photos or videos along with captions on Sunny Dahye's Instagram account. Then, from all the captions that have been collected are categorized based on the type of code mixing, then categorized based on the reasons and factors they use code mixing.

RESULT

In this section, the author will discuss and analyze code mixing such as noun, verb, adjective, and phrase used by Sunny Dahye from photo or video captions on her Instagram social media which were uploaded from June to October 2020. There are as many as 20 photo and video captions. The following is data and analysis:

DISCUSSION

From the results of the analysis above, it can be concluded that in the Sunny post caption there are various forms of code mixing. To find out the reason for using mixed code in Sunny Instagram captions, the author looks from the background of Sunny Dahye's life.

Sunny Dahye was born to a father and mother who are South Korean citizens. Sunny is good at speaking Indonesian because she spent his childhood up to high school in Bali. He also completed his studies at the Law Faculty of Gajah Mada University, Yogyakarta. After graduating from college, Sunny moved to South Korea to work at a TV station, and has become a Youtuber.

From YouTube, Sunny made videos in English. Then one day she felt that sometimes there was a language problem and Sunny was native to Indonesian because Indonesian has become the mother tongue of Sunny.

Sunny Dahye also decided to make content in Indonesian. Besides making it easier for viewers from Indonesia, she also wants her mother to easily understand the video content (Febriani, 2020).

From this background, the author can conclude that the reason for using mixed code in every sunny Instagram post is because sunny's mother tongue is Indonesian. And the use of English is to make it easier for Korean friends to understand what sunny wrote in her Instagram caption.

CONCLUSION

Language has an important role in the process of human interaction with each other. Language also plays an important role as the main topic that determines the success or failure of a communication. Language is closely related to how people communicate with each other. So, in learning a language we are also tied to people or society. Currently the use of code mixing has become commonplace on social media such as Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, WhatsApp and YouTube. Sometimes they mix languages in conversation, either directly or indirectly. The use of a combination of languages from Indonesian to English is not a taboo anymore. Reason for Using Code Mixing are participant roles and relationship, and situational factors. As though Sunny Dahye who is a Youtuber, she uses a code mixing in her captions. She did it because sometimes she encountered problems in language, because since she was little she had lived in Indonesia. In addition, she also wants her fans in Indonesia to better understand what she wants to convey, even though she uses a code mixing.
