

CALL FOR PAPER

"7th International Workshop, Bulletin of Monetary Economics and Banking"

CONFERENCE AND POSTER PRESENTATION

FINANCIAL SERVICES AUTHORITY (OJK),

FINANCIAL STABILITY AND THE REAL ECONOMIC PERFORMANCE

Jakarta – Indonesia, Thursday, 5 September 2013

THE BACKGROUND

The Financial Service Authority (OJK) in Indonesia was just established and about to be implemented. This institution is brandy new; regardless its late implementation relative to other countries who implemented right after the Asian financial crisis, 1998. This OJK is not only overseeing the microprudential regulation on banking industry from Bank Indonesia, but also mandated the power and responsibilities to coordinate and to supervise the financial services on capital market and non-bank financial industry; making him a super body financial authority.

In the long run, one of the most fundamental challenges for these authorities is to develop an efficient and full functioning banking industry, which provides full support for the economy, in a stable financial and monetary environment. 2013 will be the first year of the implementation of Financial Services Authority (OJK) in Indonesia, and we all will witness the progress of this institution and its impact on Indonesian economic, especially for the financial sector.

The Bulletin of Monetary Economics and Banking will bring up this issue on 7th international workshop, where we expect the majority of presented papers will come from banking and capital market practitioner. If you are an economist or work in financial sector, we highly recommend you to participate and submit your analysis.
