Comments to the Author

This is an interesting topic. However, authors failed to describe some important things that makes this paper hard to be understood. In method section is not clear about the instruments used whether self developed or used existed one. In the result part authors did not explain what the meaning of the median, yet what makes confuse is authors describe median as percentage. Even so, 34% and 19% is not considered good because it's even low below 50% of the total respondents. Please revise the method and result part, consequently the conclusion as well. This paper potentially be published if the method explained clearly and data presented clearly too. Suggestion: maybe authors can submit the questionnaire as supplement file so the reader can have clear understanding of what communication and improving public health means by the authors.

Comments to the Author

The topic is essential for nursing practice. However, the manuscript needs much improvement such as its content, language, citation style etc. The authors also need to follow the template of the article that provided by the MJMHS. The title did not describe the content of article. I would suggest you to amend the title that can point directly the study. Please revise the in-text citation also, it seem not appropriate. Authors also need to send the manuscript to a professional proof reader after revising the article as there are many mistakes in grammar and spelling.

Abstract

Abstract did not described the content of article clearly, so it need much revision e.g. the research problem, sampling, the instrument used, statistical test used, conclusion, etc

Introduction

It is too short. The research problem remain unclear. It is also unclear why it appears suddenly about the health education in the study's purpose. The authors did not mention about it before. The authors need to improve the introduction as the research problem not existed at all.

Method

Overall, the method did not provide much information that can guide the research conducted, it was not clear in term of instruments used, statistical test used etc. Authors need to add more information about the instruments used, validity and reliability result, statistical test used.

Results

There is no table for data demographic of respondents. It is necessary and compulsory to provide it in the study. Please add table for demographic respondent.

There was no information, why the authors present the data in median.

The explanation of table 1 not in line with the table made, the authors gave the frequency distribution that not available in the table. The median explained is not same with table provided.

Table 1 and 2 can be combined and can make a new table title. Please aware with the title of table 3 and how to make table in order to present the correlation.

Discussion

Please revise and make it better. In the discussion section, the authors do not need to mention the result anymore, but describe what the result interpretation then compare and contrast with the previous studies. The authors can also provide recommendation and implications of the study in this section.

Conclusion

It seems not conclude what the study findings. Please add what the study found.
