Portfolio Performance - Acceleration of Foreign Investment Inflows from the traditional portfolio managers are providing the marginal demand, how long will this run for?

"Indonesia is back on the radar screens of the International investment community; in the last week we have heard some massive positive offshore expectations on selected stocks in the market. The short-term positive drivers for the market continue to be IBRA asset sales, and a reasonable stable period in which core economic policy can be entrenched. Foreign Investment inflows will determine the short-term market direction, assuming no negative domestic surprises.. Note we have downgraded our extreme overweight stance to just overweight."
