

ABSTRACT

Travelling is one of the activities that can help to lessen the fatigue and boredom so that people can feel more energized to do their activities again. Traveling does not mean we have to spend a lot of money, the important thing in traveling is doing activities that can make someone energized again. Talking about travelling, Indonesia can also be one of the countries visited by tourists when they want to travel, considering that Indonesia has many cities with various culture and tourism sites. However, the information displayed in the web about Indonesia is static and incomplete. This makes the tourists have to move from one web page to another web page to get the information they needed. Improving the easiness in finding the information is one factor to increase the number of tourists visiting Indonesia. That's why in this paper will discuss more about Android-based mobile application that can help tourist to get the information they want to know includes the province tourism site and the destination site, the photos, recommendation, and information related to the prohibition.

Keywords: Traveling, tourism site, Android-based