

ABSTRACT

As a student from Indonesia, it still very difficult to find information about scholarships, especially scholarships to study abroad. Most of the several school or institution announce the scholarships through the third party, mostly via private educational agency. In facts, often through poster and banner advertisement. This makes the process of applying for scholarship not transparant and make misscommunication which can be fatal. I want to create a this Web System that can connect directly applicants and institutional or school that provide the scholarship. Where applicants can find scholarships according to their interests and match the applicant's criteria.

On the web that I will create there will be a filter function, where applicants can search the scholarship according to the criteria they want that provide scholarships. Then applicants can fill out the scholarship form, then be processed by the institution or school for the final result to be made. All on one website that can make it easier for both applicants and scholarship providers.
